Division of Business Services
Student Employees
Class of 2021

Congratulations!

Aina Athirah Ab Latip

Worked in Risk Management since June 2019

Worked in Accounts Payable May 2018 to June 2019

Degree: BBA in Actuarial Science and Risk Management

After graduation:

I'll be working for Petronas in the supply planning department.

Finding my greatest strength at UW-Madison:

I believe my greatest strength is the fact that I like to help others. My time at UW-Madison provides me with the opportunity to participate in the Badger Volunteers where I get to volunteer with a different community every semester. This helps me pinpoint the best volunteer community for me as well as how I could help each community differently. I hope to use what I learned in Badger Volunteer to further promote volunteerism in Malaysia.

Reilly Birkett

Worked in Purchasing Services since January 2019
Degree: BBA in International Business, Risk Management and Insurance

After graduation:

I had my eye on a couple of jobs, but I've recently decided to continue on in freelance marketing and data analytics as I started doing contracted work in such last year! My goal is to continue to work remotely and travel whilst doing so.

Finding my greatest strength at UW-Madison:

I think learning how to be independent and at peace with being alone is my biggest strength. When you realize that you can handle anything on your own - travel, work, school, etc., it becomes really empowering and you start to gain a new appreciation for your family, friends, and strangers all the same. UW-Madison gave me the opportunity to study abroad completely alone in a very international program (very scary). That along with many other things here have taught me that you should do the things that scare you! This quality will hopefully help me with every aspect of remote work and travel.

Cameil Bowler

Worked in Purchasing Services since October 2017

Degree: BA in Economics, International Studies, Political Science

After graduation:

No plans set in stone yet. I'm planning on working in diplomacy/international relations or economic development.

Finding my greatest strength at UW-Madison:

One of my biggest strengths is being able to maintain composure when faced with stress. I think that many of my experiences at UW-Madison have contributed to developing this skill, including academics, athletics, social life, and work. This will be useful in almost anything I pursue in the future, especially in an international relations setting.

Bobbie Egeston

Worked in Disbursements since May 2019

Degree: BS in Personal Finance

After graduation:

My hope after graduation is that I am able to continue to narrow down my career interests more by gaining experience in a variety of areas. I would like to work for a company that values improving people's personal lives for the better.

Finding my greatest strength at UW-Madison:

I believe my greatest strength is my ability to plan ahead. I do my best to prioritize and map out the steps needed to accomplish my objectives. The rigorous coursework and deadlines at UW-Madison have encouraged me to critically think and judge my progress by pushing me to identify and address my weaknesses so that they no longer hinder me from excelling both academically and at work. I'm hoping this quality will allow me to continue to work through any difficulties life will throw at me in the future and climb towards my everchanging definition of success.

Eric Fabian

Worked in Bursar's Office since August 2017

Degree: BBA in Marketing and Finance, Investment and Banking

After graduation:

I will be joining the TTI Marketing & Sales Leadership Development Program in Dallas, Texas. This is Milwaukee Tool's parent company.

Finding my greatest strength at UW-Madison:

I believe that one of my best qualities is being a good teammate. My experiences at UW-Madison in the office and in class working with other people have further developed this. I have become more flexible and able to see things from different perspectives. I hope to continue to use this quality in the future to work with and lead strong teams that can be highly successful together.

Erin Geiser

Worked in Bursar's Office since August 2018

Degree: BBA in Accounting

After graduation:

I will be graduating in May with my Bachelor's but then returning again in fall for one year for my Master's degree!

Finding my greatest strength at UW-Madison:

I think my greatest quality is being eager to learn and try new things. Coming into UW-Madison my freshman year, I was nervous for the course work and did not know many people. I quickly realized the importance of getting involved on campus as it was an opportunity for me to develop relationships and engage with others. Without the passion to try new things, I would have never been as involved with campus as I am now!

Sophie Haen

Worked in Financial Internal Control since February 2020
Degree: BBA in Finance, Risk Management and Insurance

After graduation:

I accepted a full-time position at Cigna in Denver, Colorado.
I will be in the risk management and underwriting leadership development program.

Finding my greatest strength at UW-Madison:

My organization is one of my greatest strengths and I was able to utilize it during my time at UW-Madison as both a student and an employee. I believe my organization will help me in my future roles since sometimes the smallest details can have the most significance.

Camille Mohs

Worked in Disbursements since May 2019

Degree: BBA in Marketing, Management and Human Resources

After graduation:

Since I won't be officially finished with my classes until this summer, my plans aren't solidified yet. However, I'd love to spend a bit of time doing remote work and jumping around to different places before getting started on my career.

Finding my greatest strength at UW-Madison:

My time at UW-Madison really helped me become more adaptable and positive. The circumstances that led me here were tough, as was the past year or so with the rollout of online learning. I've made the best of things through it all and remained happy and productive!

John Rach

Worked in Bursar's Office since October 2017

Degree: BBA in Accounting

After graduation:

My plans after graduation are to obtain my Master of Accountancy degree in the spring of 2022. Shortly after completing this, I anticipate passing all four CPA exams. I will then be joining PwC as an Assurance Associate in the summer of 2022.

Finding my greatest strength at UW-Madison:

My greatest strength is probably persistence. I have been a rather persistent and dedicated person since my upbringing, but this skill has evolved throughout my time at UW-Madison. Ever since the fall of my freshman year, I have had at least one job on campus and more often than not, two jobs. Additionally, I have been involved in extracurriculars throughout my tenure at UW-Madison. In spite of this busy involvement, I have been very devoted to excelling in the classroom over the last four years. I aspire to continue to develop this skill as public accounting is a very demanding profession.

Mady Romenesko

Worked in Bursar's Office since August 2018

Worked in Financial Information Management Summer 2019

Degree: BBA in Accounting

After graduation:

I will be staying in Madison to complete my Master's of Accountancy at the Wisconsin School of Business. After graduating with my master's, I will be starting my career with PwC as a Tax Associate in Minneapolis in the Summer/Fall of 2022.

Finding my greatest strength at UW-Madison:

My greatest strength is determination. During my time at UW-Madison I have nurtured this strength through my involvement in student organizations, my on-campus job in the Bursar's Office, and taking challenging courses. I learned that in order to accomplish your goals, it's important to step outside of your comfort zone and take risks. I hope to use this quality in my future to adapt to the challenges ahead in graduate school and the beginning of my accounting career.

Jack Sveum

Worked in Accounts Payable January-June 2019

Worked in Risk Management since June 2019

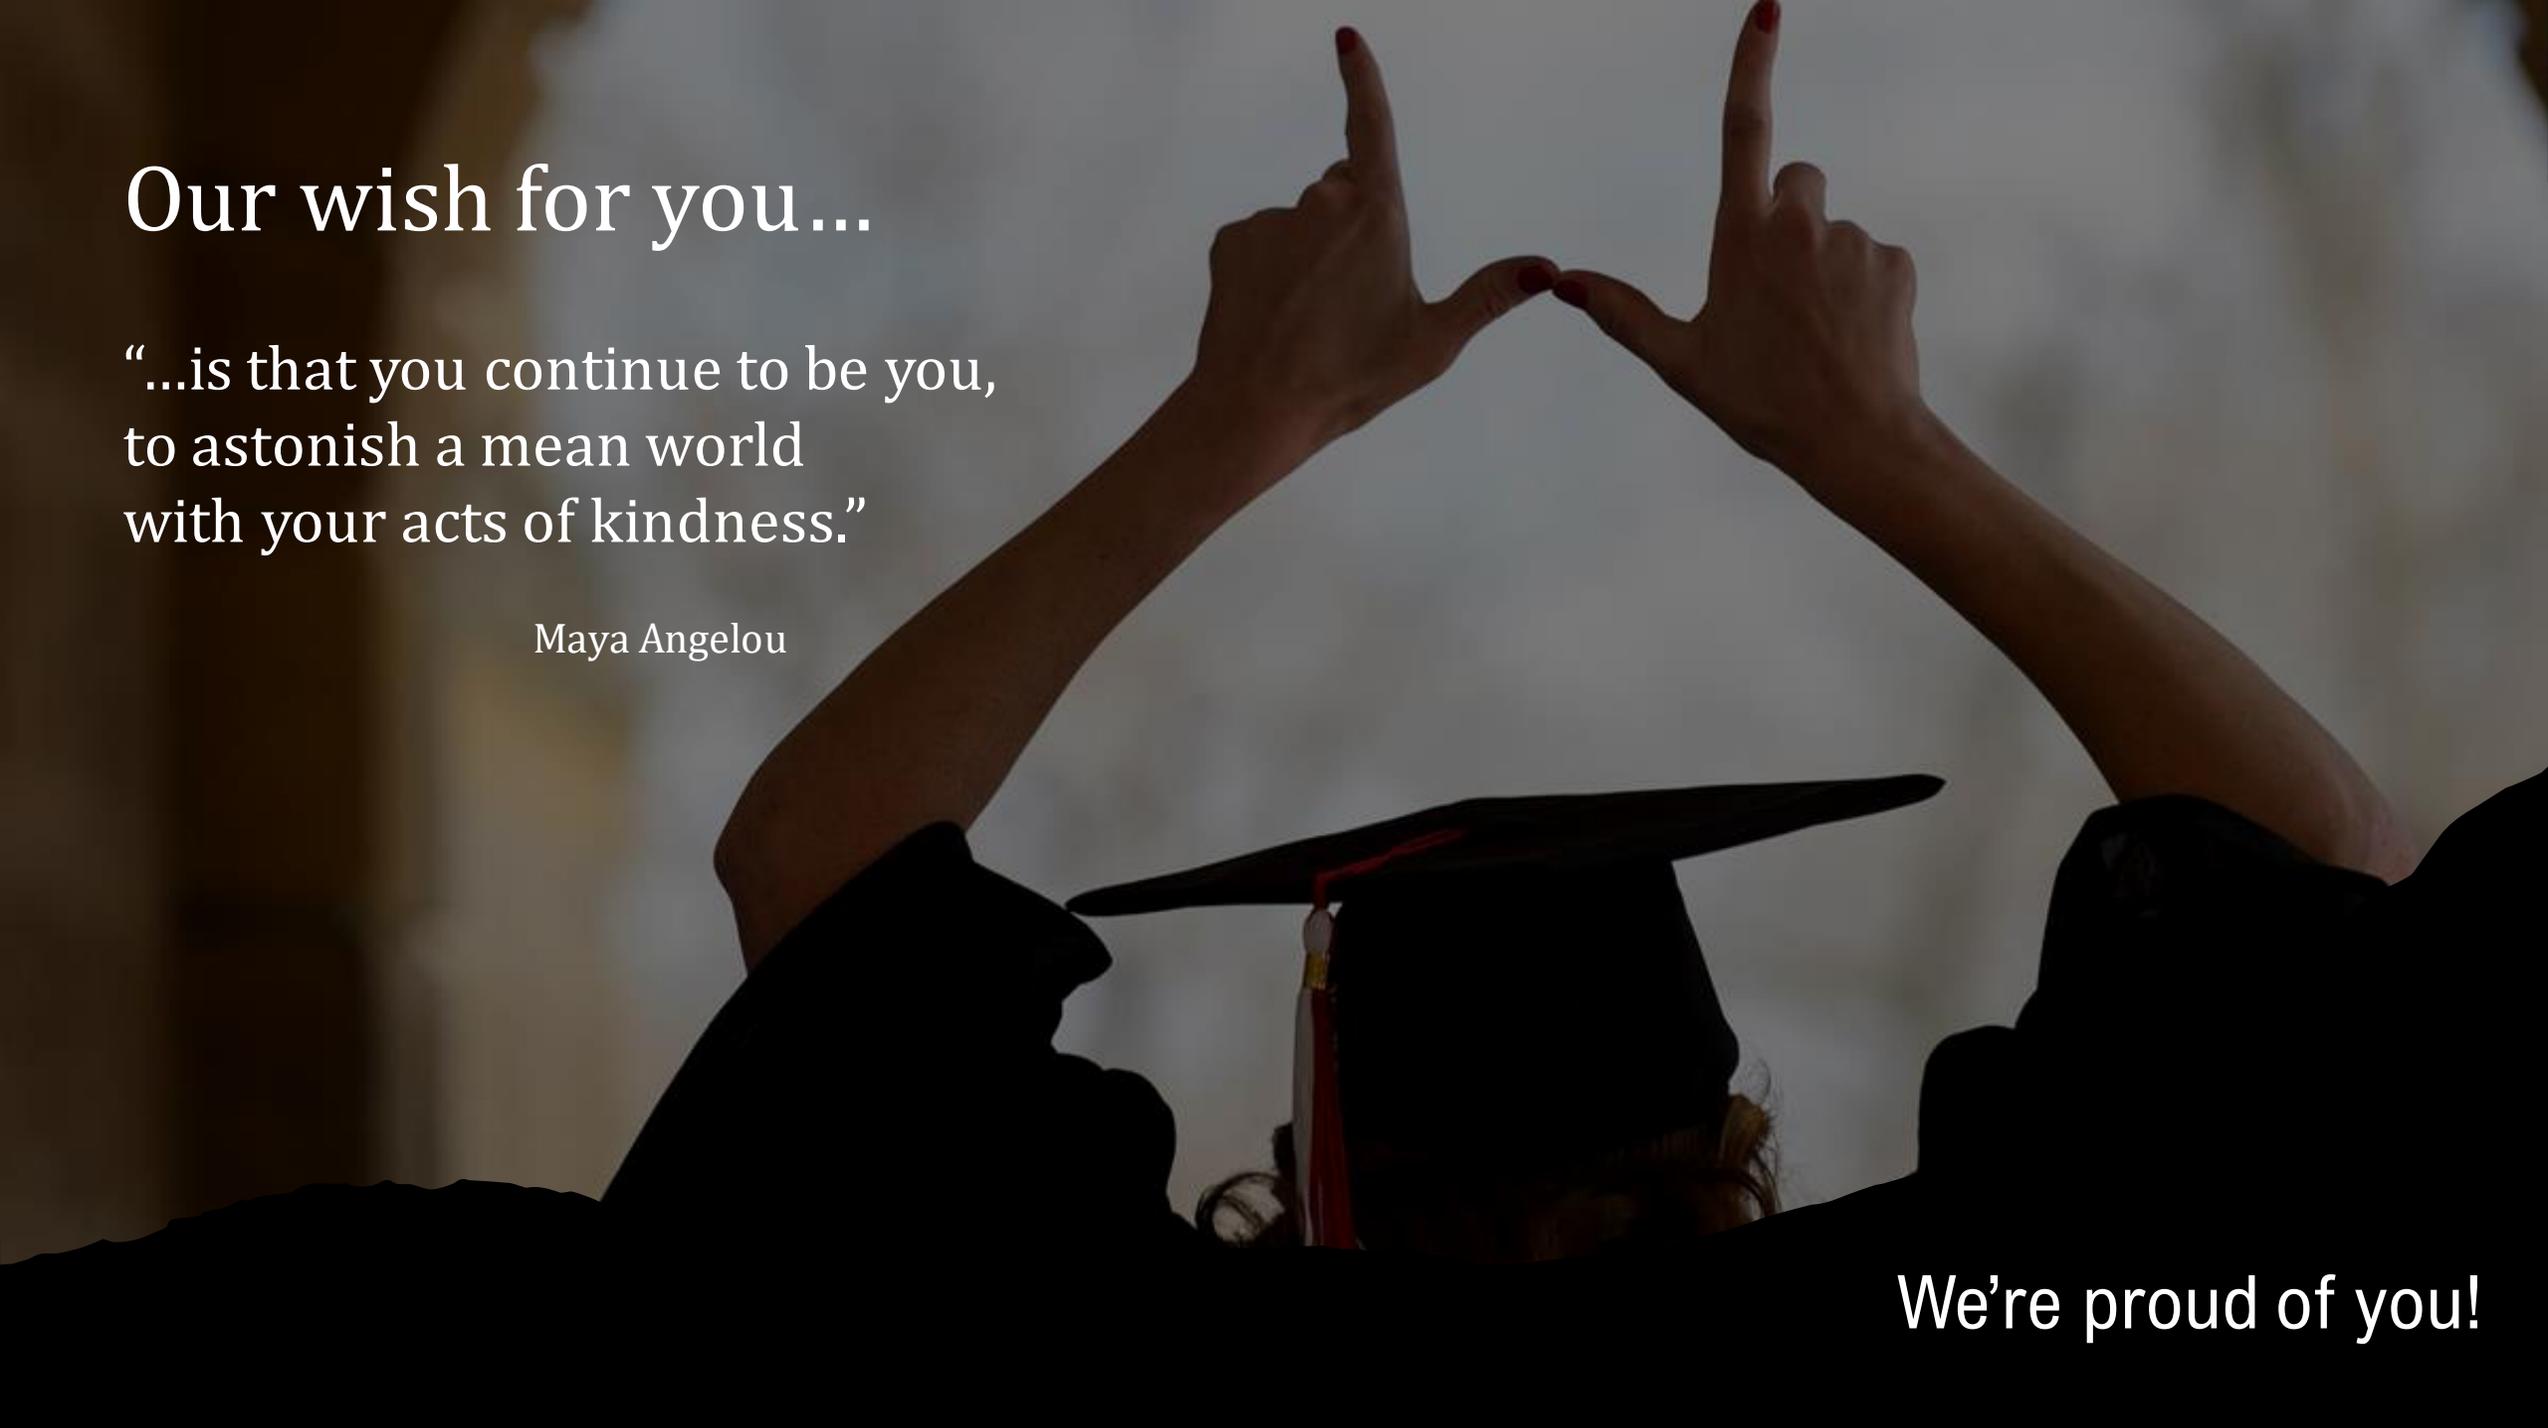

Degree: BBA in Actuarial Science, Risk Management and Insurance

After graduation:

I will be working as an Actuarial Analyst in Chicago for Milliman in their Chicago-Milwaukee Health Practice.

Finding my greatest strength at UW-Madison:

I think one of my greatest strengths is that I have grown to become very relatable and am able to get along with all types of people. I think my job in Worker's Compensation at UW and as a TA for the math department has contributed to this strength as I have met and worked with people from all different backgrounds. This quality will be extremely helpful in my future as I am moving to a new city and starting a job where I will have new co-workers.

Our wish for you...

“...is that you continue to be you,
to astonish a mean world
with your acts of kindness.”

We're proud of you!
